After some disquieting dreams, he finds himself awake in a strange place and must make an unexpected deal with the Grim Reaper to regain control of his life. The deal involves killing lots of demons, golems, gorgons, giant spiders and sea monsters. Sigh. It's going to be one of those days, isn't it?

Sound - 7.5

Gameplay - 9.0

Overall - 9.0

Awesome Game. Not the greatest game ever, but you can have some fun playing it. The controls are pretty good and the graphics actually nice.. Really Funny!!!

The mechanics works well and the controls too

I like so much the scenarios, it makes me remember RPG dungeons hahahaha

We have so many keys but the keys show you the right door to open. Good solution!

I recomend for everyone who loves pixels, funny and adventures.

Bye! i will play more now hahaha. Not impressed.. -PROBLEM FIXED.

Previous review retracted.

This game is dope.. If you like challenges , Mustache in Hell is the game .

Simple and challenging gameplay, high level of bosses and minions everywhere .

A good nostalgia from 80's games, If you do not know this game-style. I will recommend because I'm sure you won't regret it.. I personally think this is the most accurate take on Hell in a long time due to you having to blast away at bosses HP while micromanaging both the amount of traps in a room plus the annoying minions that never stop coming.

I both hate and love the idea of having the 100 million people who have died constantly attacking you, and instead of giving a cap of how many are allowed to spawn. {the cap for enemys on screen is like 50. while the cap for amount of minions is infinite or atleast till you defeat the mini bosses}.

There are 5 different trials all of which consists of

- 5-15 battle rooms.
- long hallways connecting those rooms
- one boss room
- one secret

The battle mechanics consists

- two types of chests spawn during a fight sequence - green chests = mines, grenades - blue chests = different weapons
- a enemy bar that slowly moves down as you clear out the room
- running around just avoiding many obstacles

the soundtrack reminds me of super meat boy's hell which is good I guess the thing I think needs fixing is the fact that both the fire weapons and quick dash key are the same

sorry for being illegible
